THE DAY OF DAYS.

Mr. Blaine, of Maine, is Waited Upon by the Committee and is Told of His Election.

A Long Winded Address Perpetrated Upon a Patient and Long Suffering People.

Meanwhile a Circus is Having a Great Crowd but a Short Distance Away.

The National Committee and the Circus.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 21.—Early this morning the streets of Augusta assumed a lively appearance and long before the time, for the committee appointed by the national convention to notify James G.
Blaine of his nomination to the presidential candidacy of the republican party, to perform that duty, a considerable crowd collected around the Augustu house to gaze with curiosity upon the members of the committee. A circus being also in town brought out vast numbers of people, who, with all the attractions of the national committee and the saw-dust ring, seemed disposed to make the day a general holiday.

Promptly at 11 o'clock the national notification committee proceeded in a body to Blaine's residence, where they were received by Mrs. Blaine. As the day was oppressively hot and the rooms of the mansion were crowded almost to suffocation, it was suggested the presentation address should be made upon the lawn. Accordingly the committee and guests proceeded to the all-shaded portion of the grounds, where a semi-circle was formed and all present stood with uncovered heads, making an impressive scene. The rustling of the spreading branches of the great elms and the buzzing of insects were the only sounds to disturb the stillness. When all was in readiness Mr. Blaine was escorted to the lawn, where he stood within the arch of a semi-circle. General Henderson then stepped forward and presented the address of the committee, reading it from manuscript. He spoke as follows:

"MR. BLAINE: Your nomination for the office of president of the United States by the national republican convention, recently assembled at Chicago, is already known to you. The gentlemen before you, constituting a committee composed of one member from each state and territory of the country and one from the District of Columbia, now come as the accredited organ of that convention to give you formal notice of the nomination and to request your acceptance thereof.

It is, of course, known to you that besides your own, several other names, among the most honored in the courts of the republican party were presented by their friends as candidates for this nomination. Between your friends and the friends of the gentlemen so justly entitled to respect and confidence of their political associates, the contest was one of generous rivalry, free from any taint of bitterness and equally free from reproach or injustice. At the early stage of the proceedings of the convention it became manifest that the republican states, where aid must be invoked at the last to insure success to the ticket, earnestly desired your nomination. It was equally manifest that a desire so earnestly expressed by the delegates from these states was but the truthful reflection of the irresistible popular demand. It is not thought or pretended that this demand had its origin in any ambitions or desires of your own or in organized work of your friends, but it was recognized to be what it truthfully is, the spontaneous expression by a free people of the love and admiration of their chosen leader. No nomination would have given satisfaction to every member of the party. This is not to be expected in a country so extended in area and so varied in interests. The nomination of Lincoln in 1860 was disappointing.

Discontent was so pronounced as to impel large masses of the party to organize in opposition to its nominees for many weeks after the nomination of Garfield in 1880. Defeat seemed inevitable in each case. The shock of disappointment was followed by a sober, second thought. Individual preferences gradually yielded to convictions of public duty and the prompting of patriotic resolution to irritations and animosities of the hour. The party in every trial has grown stronger in the face of threatened danger. In tendering you the nomination it gives us pleasure to remember those great measures which furnished the causes for party congratulations by the late convention at Chicago, and which are now crystallized in the legislation of the country. Measures which have threatened and dignified the nation which have elevated and advanced the people, have at all times and on all occasions received your earnest and valuable support. It was your good fortune to aid in protecting the nation against the assaults of armed treason; you were present and helped to unloose the shackles of the slave; you arrested in placing a new guarantee of freedom in the federal constitution; your voice was potent in preserving the national faith when false theories of finance would have blasted our national and individual prosperity, we kindly remember you as a fast friend of honest money and commercial integrity in all that pertains to security and repose of capital, dignity of labor, manhood elevation and freedom of the people, the right of the oppressed to demand and the duty of the government to afford protection.

Your public acts received unqualified endorsement and popular approval, but we are not unreminded of the fact that parties, like individuals, cannot live entirely on the past. However splendid their record the present is ever charged with immediate cares and the future presses on with its new duties and its perplexing responsibilities. Parties, like individuals, however, that are free from the stain of violated faith in the past, are fairly entitled to the presumption of sincerity in their promises for the future.

Among the promises made by the party in the late convention at Chicago are, economy and purity of administration; protection of citizens, native and naturalized, at home and abroad; prompt restoration of the navy; wise reduction of surplus revenues; relieving the taxpayers without injuring the laborer; preservation of the public lands for actual settlers, imposition of duties, when necessary at all, to be levied not for revenue only, but for a double purpose of revenue and protection, regulation of internal commerce, settlement of international conference by peaceful arbitration, but coupled with reassertion and maintenance of the Monroe doctrine as interpreted by the fathers of the republic.

The address was continued for some length and Mr. Blaine then read his reply.

Congressman.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Stockinger moved that the house should go into a committee of the whole for the further consideration of the bills for the erection of public buildings. This was opposed by members having in charge the special order but the bulk of the opposition came from friends of what is known as the internal revenue bill and under the leadership of Tucker succeeded in defeating Stockinger's motion by a vote of, yeas, 88; nays, 119.

Caught in the Machinery—The Irish Plan.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Miss Alice M.
Wells, of Boston, while viewing the machinery on an upper floor in a large grain elevator on Twenty-second street yesterday, was caught in the machinery and crushed to death in an instant. She was visiting the family of H. N. Greenly, of this city.

The Irishmen interviewed here upon the proposed armed movement on England, including the use of balloons from which to drop dynamite upon the cities of England, as evinced in the cable despatches yesterday, ridiculed it in every imaginable way. John T. Scanlon summed it up by declaring: "It is evident that some Milesian Munchausen is having a heap of fun on the other side.
The futility of such schemes has been satisfactorily demonstrated, besides Stephens has announced himself as opposed to the dynamite policy and could not have originated the plan." Pat Crowe, of Peoria, said: "Stephens once had an opportunity to lead an armed rebellion but proved a coward."

Capital Notes.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—It is understood that there will be two reports submitted to the house in the English case.
The majority report will say that what English did in the interest of his son was not in violation of the rules of the house; while the minority report will aver it was.

J. B. Colegrove, government contractor, was before the Springer committee to-day. He testified that he was told that he was to be presented to the grand jury for indictment, and he employed Cole, a partner of Wm. A. Cook, one of the government counsel, to look after his interests and paid him $500.
The witness continued, "My case was argued before two grand juries and ignored. I had also employed Judge Key as an attorney. Judge Key told me that he had a conversation with Ker and Ker had told him for $5,000 the whole thing would be dropped."

"Do you mean to say," the witness was asked, "that Judge Key told you Ker made that proposition?"

"Yes sir, I do. Judge Key is now in the city and can answer for it. I think these things ought to be brought to the front." Colegrove said he understood the government council went before the grand jury and argued half a day at a time to serve his indictment.

The Indians on a Rampage.

CHICAGO, June 21.—A Winnipeg, Manitoba, dispatch from Battleford says: The Indians on Roundmaker's reserve seized and beat the government official and broke into the government store and stole the provisions. About fifty mounted police sent from Battleford to make an arrest were set at defiance and a fight is expected. The people of Battleford have armed and organized themselves for defense. No arrests.

DROWNED.

Sad Death of the Young Son of Detroit Nelson.

This morning Eddie, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. DeGroot Nelson, of 262 West Berry street, with a number of companions of about his own age, went to what is known as the "Slippery Spot," in the St. Mary's river, and proceeded to go in swimming. After playing about in the water the boys commenced during each other to swim across a dangerous place in the river, where the water is nine feet deep. One boy made the trip in safety, and the Nelson lad attempted to follow, but suddenly, when in the middle of the river, threw up both hands and with a cry sank out of sight. The other lads, with one or two exceptions, were frightened so badly that they could not render any assistance, and in spite of the exertions of one lad the little fellow sank the second and last time. In a short time a great crowd had gathered at the place, but it was fully an hour before the body was recovered. A young man named Allen brought the body to the surface after which it was removed to the home of the grief-stricken parents.

The parents have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

TURN THE RASCALS OUT

Rheumatism and Neuralgia have reigned supreme since the world knew them. They have tyrannized over all classes of people. They have laughed in the face of the medical profession.

In spite of alkaline treatment, acid treatment, hydropathic treatment, and all the other things that the medical faculty could suggest, Rheumatism and Neuralgia have held giant sway.

All that medical skill has been able to do is to thus terrible maladies is to afford temporary relief. With marvelous quickness ATHLOPHOROS has out the old remedy, and now there is no lack of faith on the part of the gentleman who was thus stored to perfect health.

He tried ATHLOPHOROS just as a last resort, and because somebody told him it would cure him. Thus it has been with many and many a victim of Rheumatism and Neuralgia. They tried so many alleged remedies which proved worthless, that it is no wonder they were skeptical. Now whether you are skeptical or not, just try ATHLOPHOROS!

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

A Wabash Engineer Steals a Watch From His Companion—Arrest of the Fellow and His Queer Explanation.

Engineer Burton, formerly stationed by the Wabash company at Andrews and an old Fort Wayne man, but recently running on the Springfield division, was arrested at Springfield last week, charged with the theft of a watch and some money from Engineer McKenzie, of the Wabash road. The two occupied the same room at Danville, and after Burton left one morning, McKenzie missed his property. A detective took the matter in hand, and when arrested Burton surrendered the watch claiming he had taken it merely as a joke. He denied having taken any money. It is recalled that while he was running here, Fireman Mart Taylor, while out on the road with him, lost between $25 and $30 mysteriously.

The Democratic Candidates for State Officers.

The state democracy has jumped into the fight opened Thursday by the republicans. On Monday the various candidates will open their headquarters at the Grand hotel for the reception of friends and the entertainment of delegates to Wednesday's state convention. The present state officers, who of course expect to be re-nominated, will keep open house in room 23. The following are the candidates who have thus far announced themselves:

For governor, Col. Isaac P. Gray, of Randolph county, headquarters in rooms 4 and 6; Gen. M. D. Manson, Montgomery county, rooms 5 and 7; Judge Turpie, Marion county.

For lieutenant-governor, G. V. Menzies, of Posey; Col. L. B. McDonald, of Whitley, and J. H. Willard, of Lawrence, are mentioned.

There is a general scramble for the office of reporter of the supreme court, and the following have taken rooms at headquarters: W. G. Neff, Putnam county; Charles E. Barrett, Wayne; W. S. O'Rourke, Allen; T. M. Clarke, Martin.

A Much Married Man.

Baron Neveille, the man who was arrested for bigamy, having married the daughter of Mr. Whitney, the Detroit Opera House man, the same who desired to manage the Temple of this city, has been indicted at Toledo for that crime. Neveille, it appears, commenced his matrimonial career in 1880 by getting married when he was only seventeen years old, and has been keeping it up ever since by getting spliced at least once every three or four years. In the spring of 1882 he got a divorce from his first wife, which left him a free man, all the intermediate marriages being null and void. In the fall of the same year he was married at Newark, N. J., and it is on this that the prosecution will be based, as it is claimed that this was without any doubt a legal marriage. Miss Whitney is now in New York and is said to be thoroughly cured of her romantic desires, being convinced of Neveille's villainy.

A VARIETY

Of Booms and Boomlets now in Process of Development at the National Capitol.

Availability of Candidates Mentioned for President Discussed—McDonald Leads.

Hendricks for Governor With a Kink Worn for Voorhees and Holman—Personal Gossip.

Correspondence of THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 17, 1884.

The nomination of Tilden was expected by every body. State after state instructed for the old ticket and the field was declared off, no other candidates being nominated here. Even the Indiana club, which has been very active during the winter in becoming McDonald, stopped sending out literature and accepted the situation in good faith. But Tilden's letter resurrected a large number of booms and boomlets which had been buried and marked "N. G."

McDonald being here at the time Tilden's letter was made public his boom was the first one to come out of its long resting place. A combination between McDonald for president and Gen. Slocum for vice president, was soon effected by Voorhees, Carlisle and others, and on the same day Slocum left for New York to work up the combination. He returned to-day a little discouraged.

Bayard's boom lasted two days and was a big one, but the publication of his Dover speech in the Washington Post, (democratic), exploded it and only small fragments can now be found in Mississippi and Georgia.

Thurman's boom is growing larger and larger every day and may develop to full size by the 8th of July. However the only deep rooted boom to-day are those of Cleveland and McDonald. Three-fourths of the democratic senators and congressmen are for Cleveland and hope that he will defeat Flower, whom they distrust and whose candidacy they regard as a joke. All the New York congressmen are for Cleveland and the people of New York are for him too. But Flower, who is a jeweler by trade, but made a fortune managing his sister's railroad property that had been left her by her deceased husband, has been actively engaged during the last six months in securing delegates to the state convention.

While Flower has been forcing himself upon the people Cleveland was approving reform bills for the City of New York. The unit rule prevails there and the seventy-two votes of New York will be cast for Cleveland or Flower in accordance to the instruction of the Saratoga convention.

If the Cleveland men are in the majority in the state convention, Cleveland will be nominated at Chicago on the second ballot, but if Flower captures the convention the nomination will go west, either to Indiana, Ohio or Illinois. If to Ohio it will be Thurman, if to Illinois, Gen. Palmer will be the man. But the chances are in favor of Indiana and that McDonald will be the lucky one.

If the first place goes west Gen. Slocum will get the second place and, on the other hand, should Cleveland head the ticket the second place will go either to Voorhees, Palmer, Carlisle or Gen. Rosecrans. The New York state convention will determine whether the first place will go east or west, for Cleveland is the only available eastern candidate.

Now that the old ticket has been forever laid away an under current movement in favor of Hendricks for governor is being looked up by a number of Indiana congressmen. They think that with Hendricks at the head of the state ticket, Indiana would be safe no matter who was put at the head of the national ticket. Senator Voorhees has also stated that he would accept the nomination for governor if it was tendered him, but informed your correspondent that he would not go before the convention as a candidate. The convention will make a mistake if it does not nominate either Senator Voorhees, Hendricks or Holman. Even if these gentlemen are not candidates, either one of them would accept.

PERSONAL AND NOTES.

Hon. Wm. Fleming is here on business connected with the departments. He is solid for McDonald and Slocum but thinks Cleveland would run well.

Judge Lowry has submitted to the house the Campbell-Morey election case of Ohio. The report declares Campbell entitled to his seat. The case will be called up next week. One of the points upon which the contestant bases his claim to a seat is the college vote of the national normal school of Lebanon, when students from Indiana and other states illegally voted for the contestant. Although not the chairman of the election committee, Judge Lowry had charge and managed in the house all but two of the seven cases that have been decided up to this time. Since he was sworn in he has not been out of the city and has missed only two votes.

The Indiana state house commissioners were here last week looking over the war works and decoration of the public buildings of Washington.

Representative Ward, of the Lafayette district, left for home yesterday to look after his fences. The Hon. Bucket-shop Doxey will be the republican competitor.

Judge Holman, Col. Mulson, Gen. Tom Browne, Tom Cobb, Judge Lowry and S. J. Peelle have all been renominated. So will Calkins if Dudley buys him out for governor.

Will English works like an old man-ber.

There are not enough seats on the east side for all the democrats. About twenty-five of them are compelled to sit on the other side. The only seat left when English was admitted was one next to Smalls, a negro from South Carolina and he had to take it. As Smalls sleeps in his seat nearly all the time and that part of the hall is well ventilated, English does not suffer any inconvenience. There are two negroes in the house, Smalls, of South Carolina, and O'Hara, of North Carolina. O'Hara is better known here as the "Irish Nigger" of the house.

THE PATHWAY
Of the Commercial Trade of the Great West.

Did it ever occur to the reader of THE SENTINEL to-day that for, perhaps countless ages, the territory traversed by the Wabash railroad has been the thoroughfare between the east and west of this great country of ours? Such is the fact. Can the imagination of those who have not seen and the memories of those who have seen bring before their minds the picture of a canoe, propelled by the dusky Indian, passing from the hunting grounds of the famous Mohicans on through the chain of great lakes to the Mannebe, thence up that stream and the St. Joe and St. Mary's rivers to the water-shed which divides these streams and the Little and Great Wabash and then on down the greater bodies of water to the gulf or to their sources, penetrating almost every portion of the great west? Indeed the old chief of the Miami stated that during the time of exceeding high water he has seen these frail vessels, the Indian's favorite mode of locomotion, floating over this water-shed without the least trouble and pass on down with the current which, from this place, flowed in an opposite direction.

Then as the years passing brought with them civilization, and as the country was developed the needs of a better mode of communication became apparent, and a canal connecting the waters of the lakes and those of the Mississippi was talked about. A preposterous idea it must have seemed! But it was feasible and after many years of waiting and after a vast expenditure of money, the citizens of Fort Wayne saw the first boat floating down the placid waters of the artificial stream, bringing with it new hopes, new inspiration and the certainty of a rapid settlement and advancement of the country which it penetrated. That must have been a grand sight as the boat, propelled by horse power in its fullest scope, came up to the dock and made fast. Then came the "packets," when steam, that wonderful motive which has made its power felt throughout the whole world, was applied and the miniature steamers brought their cargoes of passengers with marvelous (?) rapidity from all points along the pathway of this channel of commerce.

But one day there came a greater revolution. A railroad train had arrived and the ovation tendered it far eclipsed that given the canal boat when it came in. The highest point it seemed was reached and the passengers imagined they were being transported on the "wings of the morning" as they fairly flew through the country at ten and twelve miles per hour. Such is the advancement within the memory of man. What shall it be within the next three-quarters of a century.

ALLEN TALKS.

The Wabash Finance Master Intervened as to His Line—Probability of a Compromise With Bondholders.

Mr. Edmund Allen, of St. Louis, master in the Wabash cases, was seen by a reporter with reference to the proposed application to have the order, hitherto made, authorizing the payment of notes to the amount of $2,200,000, cancelled. Mr. Allen stated that he had not been asked to file any papers, but inasmuch as the cross bill filed some time since mentioned a desire to have the order modified or altered, it was quite probable that such an application to cancel would be filed shortly. The firm of Butler, Hubbard & Stillman, solicitors for the Central Trust Co., the plaintiffs, had no representative in St. Louis, and that Mr. Stillman would be here in a day or two to give the matter personal supervision. The $17,000,000 general mortgage bonds held by the Central Trust Co., were part of a general issue of $50,000,000 bonds of the same tenor, designed to be used in funding innumerable small mortgages on branch roads into one grand consolidated mortgage. The funding had, however, proceeded no further than the issuing of $17,000,000 worth of bonds when the road was placed in the hands of a receiver. Mr. Allen explained in conclusion that the differences between the bondholders were not irreconcilable, and that a strong effort would be made toward that end shortly.

Next week Solon Humphries, receiver for the Wabash, will be in St. Louis. On his arrival there he, with Mr. Tuttle, will take up the question of the leased lines, and the policy in regard to them will be determined upon. As soon as it has been definitely settled what lines the future Wabash shall include, the work of improving these lines will be begun and pushed as rapidly as possible until all are in first-class condition. It is understood that two of the divisions will be disposed of. Some surprise is expressed that the courts do not order the Wabash to be separated from the Missouri Pacific and have it managed by officials other than those employed by Gould. As matters now stand Gould has the Wabash right under his finger ends.

Always in the Front Rank—To the Cannon's Mouth.

When John Robinson organized his combined menageries and circuses in 1824, fifty-nine years ago, it was the first menagerie and circus ever organized on earth, and from that day until the present time it has never changed name or owner. Year after year it has kept its place at the head of the class. Other shows, by the hundreds, have sprung up in a short-lived existence, and then drooped and died a natural death, while the John Robinson show has steadily advanced in wealth and magnitude, until to-day he has ten of the largest, Biggest and Best Big Brand New Shows Combined that the world ever saw. He numbers at the head of the monstrous accumulation of fifty-nine years, the grandest of them all.

The electric light boomed up great in the main last night.

O. A. Simons is a member of the state republican executive committee.

The Methodist ministers will all refer kindly to the late Bishop Simpson tomorrow.

John McHenry, who formerly mixed cocktails at the "Home," wants to come here again.

The boys are threatened with arrest if caught bathing within the city limits before night enshrouds the earth.

Hon. John B. Stoll, of the South Bend Times, has been quite ill, but is now improving. We fear that the late editorial banquet was too rich for him.

The Wabash Hospital assessment scheme is being enforced. Employees who are discharged or quit the service are finding themselves docked for the amount called for in the original order.

Huntington Herald: "Dr. J. W. Young, of Fort Wayne, was in the city to-day, in attendance upon the fiftieth anniversary of the birthday of his father-in-law, Rev. L. B. Smith, of this city."

Martin Kne, the young man who lost his arm at Peru, while switching for the Wabash, has never received the insurance money due from the Travelers company, although he has not abandoned hope of doing so ultimately.

John Anderson had a preliminary hearing at Rome City yesterday on a charge of criminally assaulting Miss Steiner, of Montgomery street. The boys shouted to lynch Anderson, who, however, was taken to the Albion jail without interference.

Speaking of the recent festival at Kendallville, the Standard says: "The temperance lecture of Father Wichman, of Warsaw, who by the way is a very pleasant and entertaining gentleman and an ardent republican, was well received, also the educational discourse of Mr. W. P. Breen, of Fort Wayne. Both gentlemen are fine talkers, and made a good impression."

The Warsaw Times says: "Nathan Zuckerman, a man aged about thirty years, was lodged in jail in this place a day or two since, from Beaver Dam, in this county, having been sentenced to jail by Squire Eiler, of Franklin township, on a charge of indecent exposure of person. The squire fined him $20 and costs, and failing to pay the fine, or give security, he was incarcerated in jail here. He claims to be a married man and a resident of Fort Wayne, but has been in this country according to his own statement, only one year."

The maple tree lice seem to have committed a great amount of damage throughout the towns in the western part of the state and also in Illinois. They strip the beautiful shade trees of leaves and eat the younger growth of branches. The trees have the appearance that a cyclone has passed through their branches and taken with it every leaf, leaving nothing but the bare limbs as a ghastly reminder of its visit. We have not yet heard of their appearance in this city, but they are likely to arrive at any time and as soon as their work is noticed measures should be adopted for the protection of the trees.

The Columbus, Fort Wayne and Western railroad company, which has a capital of $4,000,000, was incorporated at Indianapolis yesterday. It was formed to build a railroad from the east line of Allen county through the counties of Allen, DeKalb, Noble, Kosciusko, Lagrange, Elkhart, Marshall, St. Joseph and La Porte to a point on the northern boundary of La Porte—a distance of 125 miles. The directors are Thomas Sharp, E. C. Winstanley, B. F. Martz, John W. Ogden, A. A. Purman, O. A. Simons and P. A. Randall. This line is but an extension of the Fort Wayne, Columbus and Northwestern road, just surveyed to this city from the east, and will be ready for business inside a year.

Will Baldock is in possession of a youthful girl.

The young daughter of Capt. E. B. Smith is quite ill.

Hon. W. H. Dills, of Auburn, is in the city. Mr. Dills aspires to be committeeman for the Twelfth congressional district.

The excursion of the first voters of the eight ward to Rome City this morning, consisted of two coaches well filled with happy party.

James C. Peltier, funeral director, is negotiating for the purchase of a fine team of horses from the fire department, to drive in his hearse.

Mike Kral, while engaged in exercising his Texas ponies, yesterday, was thrown out of the buggy by the treacherous beasts and considerably bruised.

Dan Soudar desires it known that it was Deputy Sheriff Wise and not himself who accidentally discharged a revolver in the sheriff's office a few days ago.

Prof. C. L. Clippinger has nearly completed the special fund of $1,000, which he is securing from the students of the Fort Wayne M. E. college, for that institution.

A wagon loaded with men going to the polls last evening, broke down and the six persons who were once riding, found themselves in the gutter. None were seriously hurt however.

Dan Souder wishes us to deny that he carelessly discharged a revolver. He says he has not had a weapon of that description in hand for years, and asserts it was a cruel joke some one had perpetrated on him.

A gravel bank has been purchased on the Covington branch. It is the intention of the receivers to open up a pit from which to haul gravel to put the road bed on the eastern division of the Wabash road in better condition.

Hartzell, John Alabaster, J. H. Ford, Washington Gardner, A. Marine, J. M. Arnold, J. S. Smart, R. B. Pope, E. C. Hammond, H. M. Joy and others.

It was lively at the Third ward polls yesterday. Tony Trentman and Councilman A. Wolf engaged in a heated discussion about the acceptance of a vote; when Trentman struck Wolf in the face. Ex-Justice of the Peace Pratt spoke insultingly to Frank Chapman, deputy county auditor, who laid Mr. Pratt on the sidewalk very hard. In the Seventh ward an officious individual expostulated Councilman Schied and had his nose flattened for him.

The patent roof paint men, lightning rod men and other swindlers, are getting in their work on the rural residents. Our exchanges are full of accounts of honest farmers who have been "roped in" by this wily class of men. After all the good advice that has been given by the newspapers to beware of all traveling agents, if a farmer gets caught for a few hundred dollars, he must expect to get laughed at by his more considerate neighbors. Trade with your home dealers.

The organization known as the locomotive fireman's Brotherhood and the Conductors' Brotherhood seem to be vying with each other in the matter of increasing their membership. The Conductors' brotherhood during May organized new divisions at Huntington and Andrews, Ind., Huron, Dak., and there will probably be organized divisions at San Francisco, Ogden, Cheyenne, Omaha and Philadelphia, making 125 solid divisions without a break in number from 1 to 125. This will complete the organization of thirty-three new divisions this year on June 1, against thirty-two last year on October 1. The firemen, however, are still in the lead, having organized thirty-nine new divisions this year.

The Thirtieth Annual Commencement Exercises of the Conservatory of Music at the First Baptist Church.

The Program.

Last evening the First Baptist was filled to its utmost capacity by an intelligent and critical assemblage, composed principally of ladies, who enjoyed the thirtieth annual commencement exercises of the Fort Wayne Conservatory of music. The music was all catchy and as bright and sparkling as a storm of silvery water on a bed of gold. The selections were popular, pleasing and withal difficult enough to display the rare talent and careful training of the participants who were the recipients of showers of flowers from friends and admirers.

Following is the

BUTLER'S BRAVADO.

How the Wife-Murderer Feels About the Sentence—Cheerful and Contented.

From one window in the women's department of the Columbia City jail last night, a bright light was noticeable. It was the cell in which Butler, the Piercetown wife-murderer, is confined. There he passes the slow hours of the day and night, under the continued watch of one of the guards. As the sun sinks in the western sky each day the condemned man counts one day less of life. He is not nervous and excitable, but coolly calculates the time he has yet to live and expresses the wish that the day for his execution would speedily come. Butler is talkative and eagerly converses with any one who may chance to visit him, and he has a number of callers. With these he chats pleasantly and without the least apparent concern as he speaks of the approaching hanging. With a terrible oath he said to one visitor that "he had always been a man and he would die a man." Afterwards he expressed the firm resolve that he would try and make preparations to meet his wife and little boy in the next world, adding that he did not believe very strongly in a hereafter, but if there was one he wanted to see his wife. As yet he has not called for a spiritual adviser and he probably expects to make his peace with his God at a later day.

He seems to have given up all hope of a new trial and has so stated. He has fully made up his mind that he must swing and there can be no reversal of the sentence. This he accepts without hesitancy and without grumbling. Being firmly decided upon this and having abandoned all hope of life he passes the time as best he can. He has not lost his appetite in consequence and eats his food with remarkable relish. He reads everything brought to him and is now daily expecting the arrival of an organette which his sister has purchased for him and with which he expects to grind out music by the yard for the entertainment of his guard and visitors.

Sheriff Alwein will make due preparations for the execution and will himself swing the murderer off without hesitancy or trembling. The scaffold will be erected in the yard surrounding the jail or in one of the corridors, the place not being selected. In the event that it is built in the yard an enclosure will also have to be erected around it as the execution will be private. In the selection of either place the condemned man can plainly hear the workmen in the construction of the scaffold and this is what will try Butler's now intense bravado.
